

REQUEST FOR QUALIFICATIONS (RFQ) LEGAL SERVICES - ADDENDUM

This addendum is being published to clarify an item in the original RFQ for legal services, published on June 2, 2026 by West Hartford Housing Authority and Trout Brook Realty Advisors.

Under Section VIII (Minimum Qualifications), the original language stated that proposers must be licensed and in good standing to practice law in the State of Connecticut and have the ability to appear where transactions occur.

This minimum requirement language has been amended as follows:

Proposers licensed and in good standing to practice law in the State of Connecticut are preferred; however, firms not licensed in Connecticut may also submit proposals. Proposers who are not licensed in Connecticut must clearly identify:

- which of the requested legal services they are able to provide under their existing licensure,
- which services they cannot provide without a Connecticut law license, and
- the services that would need to be performed by a Connecticut-licensed law firm.

Proposers may name a Connecticut-licensed firm in their response to perform those services requiring Connecticut licensure and must describe how the firms would coordinate to deliver the full scope of services. All services requiring appearances in Connecticut must be performed by an attorney authorized to practice in the State of Connecticut.
